Introducing our New Beck's Silver / Zapper

We have been developing this new product for some time and it has some great new features.

The following table give a comparison of our old unit (5000) verses our new model (5008).

Old Unit code 5000

Mode Selection Switch

This can be accidentally changed while running a timing cycle and ruin your timing.

Zapping mode

Warning beeps every 15 minute intervals. This timing has no logical basis.

New Unit code 5008

Mode Selection Switch

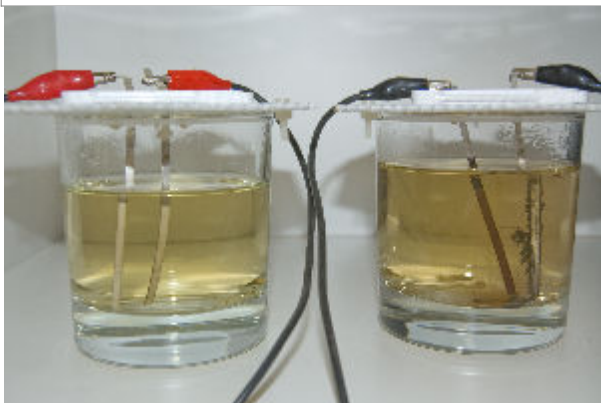

This switch is disabled once the unit is powered on, therefore preventing timing errors.

Zapping mode

Warning beeps every 20 minutes. This is the time it takes for all of your circulating blood to pass your ankle pulse points.

So each time you hear a beep you have treated all of your circulating blood.

Silver Making Mode	Silver Making Mode
Warning beeps every 15 minutes.	Warning beeps every 10 minutes, so you are reminded to reheat your water. This will help speed up the production of Colloidal Silver.
Electrodes stay at positive & negative	Electrodes Swap polarity every 30 seconds
One electrode goes black and creates lots of silver debris, thus using up your silver faster. You will also need to filter out this debris before use.	This stops the creation of debris and thus conserves your electrodes, meaning you will be able to produce much more Colloidal Silver for your money. There should be no need for a filter kit as no debris is produced.

This picture shows the difference in the quality of Colloidal silver being produced. The new unit is on the left and the old on the right, notice the debris on the electrodes and on the bottom of the glass.

What does it do?

The unit has a dual purpose device enabling you to switch between Zapping and Colloidal Silver making using the mode switch. Colloidal Silver kills all single cell organisms, so even MRSA and C diff are vulnerable. It is the universal natural anti-biotic.

Making golden colloidal silver with this device is easy, because it outputs a high 33 volts. Cheaper devices may only provide an output of 27 volts.

In Zapping mode the unit puts a small electrical current into the blood at the ankle pulse point which damages the outside of viruses, bacteria and parasites. These pathogens should not be in your blood and will be making you feel unwell. The damaged caused by this small amount of electricity may make these bugs unable to invade our cells and more vulnerable to attack from our immune system.

This principle was discovered in the Albert Einstein School of Medicine in New York in 1991. The technology then went underground whilst large medical companies were patenting the method making the treatment a hospital visit costing £1000's. Now you can do it at home yourself for pennies!!

The Kit consists of:-

Becks Zapper/Silver Maker model 5008, 1 PP3 9v battery, 10 Biotabs (enough for 10 Zapping sessions - if you need more packs of 100 are available code 5007), 2 pure silver 80 mm electrodes, a simple device tester and a set of instructions.
